

3rd ST. PETERSBURG SUMMER SCHOOL ON NETWORK ANALYSIS — 2019

08–13
JULY

Call for applications

Centre for German and European Studies, St. Petersburg State University—Bielefeld University invites applications to the 3rd St. Petersburg Summer School on Network Analysis. The School is designed for BA, MA, PhD students and early-career researchers in social sciences and cultural studies who would like to get a hands-on friendly introduction to the state-of-the-art techniques of network analysis based on European social and cultural network data.

No prior knowledge of network analysis is mandatory.

Featuring a workshop on publishing
in Social Networks journal

TEACHERS

Dr. Elisa Bellotti

PhD in Sociology and Methodology of social research, senior lecturer of the department of Sociology at the University of Manchester, member of the Mitchell Centre for Social Network Analysis, associate editor of Social Networks journal. Expert in qualitative and mixed-method social network analysis. Published in Social Networks, Scientometrics, and International Journal of Consumer Studies.

Dr. Julia Brennecke

PhD in Business, senior lecturer in Innovation and Knowledge Management at the University of Liverpool Management School, convenor of the EGOS Standing Working Group on Multilevel Network Research. Expert in multilevel and multiplex statistical modelling of individual, organizational and knowledge networks. Published in Social Networks, Research Policy, and Human Resource Management.

STUDENTS WILL GET

- awareness of the opportunities network analysis provides for social and cultural studies;
- basic practical skills in analyzing different types of networks using the existing software;
- experience in working with network data from Germany and Europe provided by the organizers or with their own data;
- an opportunity to discuss their own work with leading international researchers and peers.

The organizers will provide: lunches, coffee-breaks, participant packages and a cultural programme in St. Petersburg. Successful applicants will receive Visa support.

Travel and accommodation: Participants are expected to come and lodge with their own funding, but 3 non-St. Petersburg-based authors of best applications will be granted free accommodation.

APPLICATION GUIDELINES

Deadline: March 1, 2019

Submission (in English): CV, motivation letter, short description of own research project

Submission email: info@zdes.spbu.ru

Further information: www.zdes.spbu.ru

Working language: English

Registration fee: €50

Venue: Centre for German and European Studies at St. Petersburg State University, Russia.

